"The time has passed," said the Senator, 'when competition enters into the question of making rallway rates. Half a dozen men can fix rates as they see fit and no one can stop them. When you ship your produce they tax you at will and neither the shipper nor the receiver has a word to say in the matter. They tax you and there is no appeal from their charge. The country cannot prosper under these conditions and it is absolutely necessary that the Government may provide a tribunal to say just what is a fair and a just charge. We must regulate and control the transportation companies. They are great a gencies but they must not be allowed to plunder the people at will. ### KENTUCKY DERBY.

Field Small, But Interest Taken Very Great.

(By Associated Press.)
LOUISVILLE, KY., May 9.—Although the field may be small, the thirty-first running of the Kentucky Derby has aroused as interest in the opening day of the spring meeting of the new Louisville
Jockey Association greater than on any previous occasion, except possibly the famous duel between Proctor Knott and Spokane. With a number of horses still eligible, the only horses regarded to-day as certain starters were Agile, Rams Horn and Dr. Leggo, and rumor had it that there was even a possibility of Dr. Leggo's being scratched to-morrow.

Agile will be the odds on favorite with Rams Horn a heavily backed second choice, and Dr. Leggo third choice.

Wants Mills's Plan.

Mr. Blair followed Mr. Minor, and spoke carnestly and at some length in favor of the Mills plan.

He covered the ground so often gone over by himself, both in the committee and in the Board, and in addition dealt to some extent with the financial side of the question, conlending that the city could not take care of the territory proposed to be taken in under the committee report.

report.

Mr. Blair denounced the committee report as an outrageous and indefensible plan, and he expressed the belief that the Board would not adopt it. He said the Board would not adopt it. He said the Richmond branch of the American Locomotive Works, had told him that the people owed him a debt of gratitude for the fight he had made against a liberal policy of annexation, and that had the Locomotive Works been taken in, it would have seriously crippled the business of the concern.

Mesars. Minor and Blair had a brief running debate over the statistics they had submitted, and Mr. Dabney spoke carnestly in favor of the report of the committee.

Mr. Dabney dwell at some length upon the financial side of the proposition, and then passed to the manufacturing side. He said that Mr. Blair's contention that one hundred manufacturers on the outside did not desire to come in was not surprising, as they were enjoying a low rate of taxes in the county and getting city protection they did not deserve. He read letters from a large number of manufacturers, in which they said they much preferred to be in the city with their plants.

For Better Health.

Mr. Dabney pleaded for a policy which would afford better health conditions and which would furnish reasonably cheap homes for residents, as well as sites for manufacturing enterprises.

He spoke of the many manufacturers recently turned away from Richmond because there were no sites, and he told of a recent case where one had hunted Richmond over in vain and had then gone to Manchester.

"This is not altogether a question of dollars and cents," said the speaker. "I admit that people generally think of themselves first, but I submit that we should think of the whole people sometimes."

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Richmond Citizen.

Governor Glenn was at the depot to take the same train for Fayetteville, and General Glenn did not know him, and asked those about him where he was-in fact, who he was.

Governor Glenn abandoned his trip to Fayetteville and carried his brother to the mansion as quickly as he could. Physicians were summoned as quickly as possible and every attention given.

In the course of an hour he was gotten around so that he knew those about him and could talk much better late to-night. His condition is reported about the same that it was this afternoon.

It was just a year ago that General Glenn sustained his first stroke of paralysis, and lay in a critical condition for many weeks.
